Garret A. Hobart, Vice-President during the first McKinley administration, was the only citizen of New Jersey to be elected to that office. Theodore Frelinghuysen was nominated for Vice-President on the Whig ticket in 1844, William L. Dayton on the Republican ticket in 1856 and Joel Parker on the Labor Reform ticket in 1872.

New Jersey, it is thus seen, is in no position to dispute with Virginia of Ohio the right to the title "Mother of Presidents." An inspection of the record shows that New York, Ohio and Virginia are tied as to the number of Presidents each has given the republic. Here is the record: Virginia, five presidents: Washing.
